Ross Broadstock Trustee - Treasurer, Finance Committee member, Health and Safety Committee member

Born in Aberdare, Ross went to school in Beddau before leaving South Wales for a Management Science degree from the London School of Economics (LSE). Staying in London for twenty years, his professional career began with market research and then media sales. In 2001 Ross started his own media sales company, expanding into large-scale exhibitions, such as 'The London Golf Show', before moving to Abu Dhabi to help launch the new international exhibition centre there, with shows including the 'World Future Energy Summit'. Here he met and married his wife Angela and their first son was born. The family moved to Qatar where Ross managed the launch of an engineering company before returning to Wales where their twin boys were born. Ross now has a creative company sculpting and painting model figures with a recent commission for the Royal Armouries now on display at the Tower of London. As well as volunteering to help the School, Ross coaches local football and cricket teams. He has three sons in the Lower School.

Mike Ash-Edwards Trustee – Health and Safety Committee member

Mike has a background in managing membership and community programmes with the Co-op, and was most recently responsible for connecting the Co-op's 600,000 members with the Society's businesses in Wales. He has helped set up new Community Foundations in England, working for the UK network of Community Foundations, and spent over ten years as a Campaign Manager for Oxfam in the UK and overseas. In partnership with his wife, Mike is a supported lodgings provider with Cardiff Council, working to help 16-18 year olds develop the skills required for independent living, with education and training opportunities. He currently works as a caseworker for Anna McMorrin MP; is a Board member of the Wales Co-operative Centre; and Secretary of Cardiff and the Vale Co-op Party. Mike says "I am engaged with a number of community organisations in my local area but, given the important role that schools play within the community, I feel I can make a contribution locally as a trustee of Cardiff Steiner School. My most recent role with the Co-op included running projects with schools and young people, and developing strategic proposals for co-operative education."

Miranda Knight School Administrator, ex-officio, non-voting member of the Trustees (Designated Senior Person for Child Protection)

Miranda is the School Administrator. She has been involved with the School since its inception and brings a huge amount of knowledge, expertise and warmth to its operation and development. Miranda is an integral member of the School Management Team, leading the Administration and working closely with the teachers, trustees and parents. She is the public-face, and a key voice, in the day to day life of the School. Miranda is responsible for administrative systems, HR, Health and Safety, regulatory compliance, policy management, and general procedures to support the ongoing development of the School. Miranda is also a trained dancer and choreographer with a BA (Hons) in Contemporary Dance from the London Contemporary Dance School. Since January 2017 she has also been the School's Bothmer Teacher, and is currently undertaking the Bothmer Movement International course - a four year, intensive training course for movement teachers at Forest Row in Sussex. Miranda has over 30 years' experience as a performer, teacher, choreographer and creative artist. Miranda says that 'movement lives in her bones' and is passionate about Bothmer, combining, as it does, her love for movement and for Steiner education. Miranda was also a Parent and Toddler Leader at the school for several years. Her four children all attended Kindergarten, her eldest son, Lucas, was one of the very first children, and youngest daughter Hera now attends the Upper School.
